What I Saw And Heard

I am of the opinion that the members of the Metropolitan Church will allow Rev. Mr. Drew to occupy the unexpired term to which he was elected. The malcontents should be satisfied.

Emmett J. Scott, who has quite a number of big negroes bluffed, imagines that he is a great man. I wonder where he gets that idea.

I don't think Dr. Bruce Evens should resign the directorship of Armstrong Manual Training School. He should have his salary increased and remain.

I have nothing against Dr. Evens, but I don't like to see a good and useful man taken away from a position in which he is so useful.

At last the great negroes of the country have organized and elected Dr. Du Bois as their leader. Dr. Du Bois is a

Mr. Willard Against The "JIM CROW" CAR BILL.

From the Culpeper, Va., Exponent. About the only thing that the people of Culpeper have heard regarding what Mr. Willard favors, or does not favor, is that he is in favor of the single list of school books. So are all the other candidates in favor of this list, but by a gradual adoption, in order that the people of the State may not be left with a lot of useless and valueless school books on hand. However, the newspapers that are shouting so loudly about Willard being in favor of the single list, have not been generous enough to apprise their readers of this fact.

Supposing that these same papers are well nigh wearied with the talk of his favoring the single list, as their readers must be, the Exponent desires to call their attention to another instance in Virginia. We have before us a copy of the Richmond Dispatch of January 16, 1900. We give its entire report upon the proceedings of the committee:

Hon. John E. Epps has won his fight for the separate car bill. The House Committee on Roads and Internal Navigation voted last night to report it favorably, and it will appear on the calendar of the House to-day. There is little or no doubt of its passage.

The session of the Committee was held in the hall of the House. The interest in the measure was manifested by the large crowd in attendance upon the meeting. The Hall was filled with spectators, more than one-half of the General Assembly being present. Mr. Epps made a good fight for his bill, refusing to accept any amendments, though many offered, and when the bill was finally adopted without change, the crowd broke forth into cheers, and Mr. Epps was heartily congratulated.

Reception To Rev. Drew.

Tuesday evening, July 6th, the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church was crowded to its utmost capacity. There were present people from all stages in life. Old men, old women, young men and young women, children and even babies in their mothers' arms came out to honor the man who had won a legal victory in the Court of Appeals. There were also present representative ministers from other churches present and they spoke words of praise. Several beautiful young girls acted as ushers and seated the people as they entered the church. The pulpit was beautifully decorated, and seated therein were distinguished men. Prof. Thomas Miller, the choir director, conducted the singing and many sweet pieces were rendered by the choir under his directions. The meeting was called to order by Mr. A. E. Robinson, one of the trustees, who delivered a well and timely prepared address. This was followed by Scripture reading by the young divine, Rev. W. H. Howard. Addresses were then delivered by the deacons and trustees, Messrs. Robert H. Roberts, R. H. Moten and Geo. R. Robinson. Capt. Stitt rendered a beautiful vocal solo entitled "Anchored," which was very significant for the occasion. This followed with addresses by: Sunday School, Mrs. Carrie Johnson; The Literary, Mrs. Mary E. Thomas; Boys' Brigade, Major Wm. Dixon, and Capt. Harry Johnson.

The address by Rev. Dr. Strother was enthusiastically received. He created much merriment.

Rev. W. H. Howard was most eloquent and logical. He delivered a masterly speech. Prayer was offered by Rev. Turner.

Rev. J. L. Birchett, B. D., of New York, spoke in part as follows: It is indeed a pleasure to me to be present on this grand occasion. Standing before such an intelligent audience whose every face is beaming in joyful glee to God, and every soul is exulting in great jubilation and thanks to God, who stopped the furious march of the enemy, condemned the code of false decrees, caught the ring leader of destruction on the path of vengeance and brought complete victory to Dr. Drew.

The mighty forces of ungodly men were centered at one focus; every arrow was aimed at one object and for one purpose—to kill, if possible, that invincible soldier who knows no defeat, Rev. Simon P. W. Drew, D. D. Rev. Drew is a God-fearing Christian gen-man of great learning.

Tom Fortune has started an eight page sheet. There is now a great draw on Tuskegee. I understand that Emmett Scott is one of the editorial managers of The Age.

The citizens of this city would object to bringing young Bruce from Tuskegee. There is a movement on foot to make Dr. Evens supervising principal and Bruce director of the Armstrong Manual Training School. While Bruce is a fine young man and I have no personal ill will towards him, I know the people will not permit him to be at the head of the Armstrong without a protest. I don't think that Mr. Francis would insult the people to that extent.

Prof. N. E. Weatherless is the best man to appoint as Prof. Brown's successor. The people ought to have something to say in this matter. If it were left with the people Prof. Weatherless would be appointed.

Justice O'Neal is on the bench for the months of July and August, and probably until September. No man is more popular with the bar than Justice O'Neal. He conducts his court with dignity and decision.

which, Mr. Willard's disapproval came very near to the white men, women and children of Virginia.

We all know what a pleasant difference there has been in riding upon the railroads cars of Virginia since the passage of what is known as the "Jim Crow Car Bill." We all know with what satisfaction it has been, since its passage, that Virginia gentlemen have been able to put their wives, their daughters and their children upon the railroad cars, securely contented in the thought that in their travels alone they will not be disturbed, harassed or embarrassed by the rude, uncouth and vulgar negro men and women that at one time made traveling so disagreeable to ladies and children, when unaccompanied. Indeed, being in the company of their husbands and brothers was no guarantee of freedom from the discomfort of traveling in the same car with unclean and vulgar negroes. This was the condition of affairs in Virginia up to 1900, at which time Hon. John E. Epps, member of the House of Delegates from Richmond, introduced a bill to provide for separate coaches for white and colored passengers upon the railroad trains of Virginia.

The bill was referred to the committee on Roads and Internal Navigation, of which committee Mr. Willard was a member. Now let us inquire into Mr. Willard's action in regard to the subject, which was certainly of the gravest import to the white people of

BAKER SUBSTITUTE WITHDRAWN.

The Epps bill was the first read, and was followed by the reading of the Baker substitute, which is an exact copy of the North Carolina law. The McAllister compromise bill was then read. Mr. Epps had amended his bill so as to provide that when any coach or compartment of a car for either race shall be completely filled where no extra coaches or cars can be had, the conductor is authorized to assign seats to one race in the car or compartment set apart for the other race, and to provide that the act should not apply to Pullman cars or to through express trains doing no local business. Mr. Baker upon hearing the Epps bill read said the amendments met any objections he had to the original bill, and he, therefore, would withdraw his bill. Mr. Epps made a strong plea for his bill. He recognized, he said, that the people wanted separate cars, and he was going to continue to fight for them, if he never got another free passage on another railroad in his life. The House of Delegates provided separate galleries for white and colored spectators, the churches and theatres provided separate places for the races, and it was no hardship to separate them when traveling. He said if his bill was not reported he would introduce it in the House as a substitute.

TELLS OF HIS AGONY.

EMPEROR EUGENIE'S LETTER ON NAPOLEON'S END.

In Missive, Written to Friend, Just Published, She Tells of Bona-

Paris.—In connection with the presence in Paris of Empress Eugenie, a highly interesting letter written by her to Mme. Cornu, foster-sister of Napoleon III., has just been published. It was believed that the document was given out by M. Franceschini Pietri, though this is not known as an absolute fact. Mme. Cornu, while the emperor was in the hands of the English surgeons in January, 1873, at Chislehurst, asked for news of the patient, whose painful malady had been diagnosed before the outbreak of the Franco-German war by Dr. Neilston, Dr. Ricord, Dr. Fauvel, Dr. Curvisart and Dr. Germain See. The empress replied:

"My Dear Mme. Cornu: I have just received your letter, and I lose not a moment in giving you news of our very, very dear patient. It would be impossible to tell you all that he has suffered. He has, I think, felt the largest part of moral and physical suffering that it has ever been the lot of one man to bear. At last they have found, after examination, a stone as large as a chestnut. Sir Henry Thompson effected two operations to-day. The local phenomena are still serious. The general strength is good. We cherish, accordingly, a hope which can be founded reasonably on reassuring symptoms. In spite of all, however, my anxiety is extreme. I pass from complete calmness to utter despair. My poor boy is, thank God, at Woolwich, and that enables us to reassure him completely and more than we can reassure ourselves.

"After the discovery of the stone Sir Henry Thompson and Sir William Gill both remarked that they could not understand how my dear emperor was able to remain five hours in the saddle at Sedan. Will there at last not arise a cry for justice in France, where he so loved, and loves still, to silence the frightful calumnies which have caused him so much suffering? People, as well as individuals, may be surprised for a moment when events hurry along precipitously, but woe to those for whom the hour of justice never comes. Sometimes, on seeing certain children tearing the wings of butterflies, and tormenting poor things that cannot show signs of suffering, I have made the comparison, and have thought that people sometimes pluck out the heart and hurt it without knowing the evil they do, with an eternal smile on their lips. My letter is rather incoherent, but you, my dear Mme. Cornu, will understand my state of mind at the present moment. Always yours affectionately, Eugenie."

On the day after this letter was written the emperor died. In giving out the document for publication, the person whose name is not mentioned, but which is surmised, said: "Let whoever may be deceived by the sort of shyness which causes the empress to conceal her emotion and to remain impassive, read this letter in which she makes, amid the tortures of anxiety, a first appeal to the justice of history."

HIDDEN ISLES OF THE SEA.

Many a noble ship, richly laden with the proudest spoils of human industry and enterprise, and freighted with that which is dearer still—human life—has passed away in the morning sunlight glittering snowy canvas, passed away, never to arrive at its destination; passed away forever from the ken and knowledge of men as completely as if it had never been in existence.

What has become of those vanished argosies? Whither have they gone? When the seas give up their old ocean lays bare its sechuman skeletons, the virgin gold, the priceless gems, the costly jewels, and the wrecks of those vanished ships will be found strewn amid the tremendous passes and deep defiles of those submerged mountain ranges which are the backbones of lost continents, upon those topmost peaks, projecting near the surface of the seas, these lost convoys have been dashed to destruction! The mariner's compass and the navigator's chart have not been able to protect commerce from the wreck and ruin of these submerged ridges, but the good ship "Columbia," richly laden with its precious cargo of "Columbia Club," the purest and best whiskey in the world, launched and navigated by William J. Donovan from the famous Baseball House, located at 1528 Seventh street, N. W., with the Stars and Stripes glittering from its gaff and defiance to all competitors thundering from its steel-clad turrets, has weathered every gale and returned safely from every voyage, because Mr. Donovan knows the highways of successful business enterprise are strewn with the derelicts of pretension and misrepresentation, and that quality alone, and quality strictly and strenuously adhered to, is the only chart and surest recommendation of those who wish to indulge in the delicious, stimulating, health-giving virtue of a truly honest American whiskey—the "Columbia Club."

KING CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK
A REMARKABLE RULER.

Monarch Still Hale and Hearty at Age of 87.—His Descendants Connected with Many Reigning Houses of Europe.

Copenhagen.—King Christian of Denmark celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday Thursday, April 6. His descendants occupy or will occupy the thrones of Great Britain, Russia, Denmark, Greece and Baden. He still is vigorous and healthy and took great pleasure in his family gathering, which was curtailed this year an account of the war.

Few monarchs, or, indeed, few men, can look back to a career more remarkable than can Christian IX. Born on April 8, 1818, as the third son of a throneless prince of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Gluecksburg, at the age of 18 he entered the Danish army as a lieutenant, not thinking that he should ever become commander-in-chief. In 1842 he married Princess Louise of Hesse, daughter of Prince William, landgrave of Denmark.

King Frederick VII. of Denmark had no offspring and as Princess Louise was the nearest heir to the throne of Denmark it was agreed to by the powers in London on May 8, 1852, that her husband, Prince Christian, should succeed Frederick. By the London protocol Prince Christian was given the title of royal highness and an income of $55,000, besides a palace in Copenhagen and the Bernsdorf castle. He was declared heir to the throne by Danish law on July 31, 1853. He continued to serve in the army and at the time of the death of Frederick VII. he had reached the grade of inspector general of cavalry.

The year 1863 was one of great importance to Prince Christian. In March his oldest daughter, the beautiful Princess Alexandra, was married to the prince of Wales; in June his second son, Prince Wilhelm, was offered and accepted the throne of Greece as King George I., and finally, on November 15, on the death of King Frederick, he ascended the throne of Denmark.

At first he was not very popular. He was received coolly by the Danish people, who, during the first year of his reign, were engaged in a hopeless war with Germany and Austria, resulting in the loss of the dukedoms of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg. Since then his reign has been a happy one; commerce, industry, art and agriculture have flourished, and Denmark has lived in peace, devoting all her energy to the development of her resources. Now the king, through his justice and gentleness and his interest for the welfare of all his subjects, has gained a universal popularity.

In 1866 his second daughter, Princess Dagmar, was married to Alexander III. of Russia, then czar. Their married life was the happiest, and it is without doubt the gentle and amiable Danish princess had a strong and good influence upon the despotic ruler. In 1860 the king's eldest son, Crown Prince Frederick, married Princess Louise, only child of Charles XII. of Sweden and Norway; in 1878 his youngest daughter, Thyra, was married to Ernest August, duke of Cumberland, the eldest son to the late King George V. of Hanover, and in 1885 his youngest son, Prince Waldemar, married Princess Maria of Orleans, daughter of the duke of Chartres. While this his four eldest children are, or sometime will be, crowned heads, four of his grandsons one day may become the rulers over more than one-half of the civilized world—Russia, England, Denmark and Greece.

While the king is now vigorous and alert at the age of 87, his wife died on September 29, 1898, at the age of 80.

Israel's Oldest Tenant.

Thomas Coates, the late Lord Beaconsfield's oldest tenant, died at Houghton, Buckinghamshire, February 6, at the advanced age of 88. He had had the closest relations with the great conservative statesman, who frequently consulted him on agricultural questions, and the deceased had many interesting reminiscences about the earl. He remembered innumerable noted visitors in Houghton, including the late duke of Wellington. Mr. Coates last Easter resigned his church wardenship for Houghton, which he had held for nearly half a century.

Lawmaker from the Backwoods.
William J. Tyndall, congressman from the Fourteenth Missouri district, is reported to have taken his first ride in an elevator after reaching Washington to look over the city, where he is to work for the next few years.

New Jersey Has Tiny Infant.
Mrs. Lucy Silvers, of Jersey City, N. J., gave birth to a daughter who weighed but 14½ ounces. The little stranger was christened Jeannette when less than an hour old. It is the smallest baby ever born in the vicinity.

WINS FIGHT OF 17 YEARS.

Stubborn Man Finally Gains His Point and Closes Toll Road—
Conflict of Long Standing.

Lancaster, Pa.—For 17 years Columbus O. Rate, residing near the city limits, has fought unaided the Big Spring & Beaver Valley Turnpike company, whose road passed his property, and which, he maintained, was a public nuisance. His victory has finally been won, the court having just ordered the turnpike condemned.

As far back as 1888 Rate first began condemnation proceedings against the company. The latter resisted, and a suit resulted, which Rate won; but the decision was reversed by the supreme court. Rate then refused to pay toll, and threatened to tear down the gate house, thereby inviting another suit to test his allegation that the turnpike was a nuisance and an unnecessary public infliction.

Again he was prosecuted, and won the suit in the lower court, only to be again reversed. Still unrelenting in his determination to close the toll gate, Rate, with the assistance of his neighbors, began an agitation for the extension of South Duke street. It was finally opened to a point beyond the company's tollhouse, enabling travelers to get into and out of the city without paying toll.

This was a practical victory for Rate, for the company's business was in time almost completely destroyed. The road was soon in a deplorable condition, owing to lack of repairs, and then Rate again took steps to have it condemned and the toll gate removed.

These have at last been successful, and the turnpike is now a free public highway. Nearly the entire length of the turnpike was within the city limits.

DOG A MOTHER TO CHICKS

Canine Shelters Wee Feathered Creatures—Chases Cats with Criminal Intentions.

Bloomfield, N. J.—Edward G. Naumann is the owner of seven little chickens which were brought to life in an incubator. Mr. Naumann is also the owner of a pet dog. The dog was basking in the sunshine the day the little chickens were turned out to scratch, and one of the little chickens butted up against him and immediately took shelter under his fleecy hair. The six others followed suit.

The dog did not resent the intrusion and the chickens made themselves very much at home, making short excursions from their shelter and then running back again. When the dog got up and moved he was followed by the batch of little chickens, and when he lay down again the chickens again used him for a shelter.

The dog, Mr. Naumann says, is a wonderful guardian and protector. While there are no fences around his Llewellyn avenue premises, yet such is the sagaciousness of the dog and his intuitive ideas of surveying and geography that if the chickens attempt to cross the line of the Naumann place, the dog noses them back to their proper bounds and if a cat appears in the neighborhood the dog puts it to flight. The dog is very considerate of his charges and when they want to rest he lies down and the chickens cuddle up against him.

ICE THIRTY FEET THICK.

Remarkable Discovery Made by Connecticut Man Seeking Cold Water in a Well.

New Haven, Conn.—The people up in Coventry have been astonished to find this year in the early summer a well in a farm yard which is still frozen to the depth of 30 feet. Nothing like this has been known in Connecticut in years, the heavy ice banks of 1888 having receded by this time of year.

So "fishy" did this story seem that a Hartford reporter, exceptional for his veracity, personally looked the matter up. He found that the well had not been used recently, and that when the farmer on whose premises it was thought he would like a drink of cold water tried to draw it his bucket struck a hard substance.

Getting into the well, the farmer found that the top of the well was thick with ice, which reached at least 30 feet in a solid chunk to the bottom. The well has performed unusual feats in keeping ice in recent years, but nothing so remarkable as this.

Beggars Print a Paper.

It has been discovered that the Paris beggars' guild circulates a four-cent weekly in Paris, giving the news of fraternity doings, articles upon the latest discoveries of means to wring tears and cash from the tender-hearted, announcement of society affairs at which beggars may hope for a rich harvest, want ads, such as: "A member seeks a colleague able to simulate fits," "Wanted—Blind boy, curly-headed preferred, able to play the violin." The police, having found the list of subscribers, expect to be able to purge the chapel doors of watering places of many impostors.

Boycott on Togo.

When some of our various $100,000 men hear that Admiral Togo's salary is only $3,000, they may feel some inclination to boycott him for cutting rates.

Oscar Stands Pat.

King Oscar refuses to let any of his boys or their boys occupy the throne of Norway. Evidently Oscar is not a believer in the efficacy of scattered shot.

A ROYAL MARRIAGE.

The Reigning Houses of England and Sweden Are Joined by New Ties.

Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden and Princess Margaret of Connaught, who were married recently, are said to be lovers in the truest sense of the word. Prince Gustaf Adolf is the eldest son of Crown Prince Gustaf, and hence is the heir presumptive to the Swedish throne. He was born November 11, 1882, and bears the title of duke of Scania. His full name is Oscar William Frederic Olaf Gustaf Adolf. He is a soldier, and has two brothers.

Princess Margaret is the eldest child of Prince Arthur, duke of Connaught, and was born January 15, 1882. Her full name is Margaret Victoria. She has a brother aged 22, and a sister 19 years old.

Her uncle, King Edward VII., bestowed on her the nickname of "Daisy," and she seldom is called by any other name in the royal family circle. Princess Margaret is tall, healthy and handsome, and loves fun and amusement.

Many distinguished personages participated in the marriage ceremony. The bridegroom entered the chapel accompanied by Prince William of Sweden, with gentlemen in attendance. The bridegroom was followed by the royal party, including King Edward, Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria, the crown prince and crown princess of Sweden, the duchess of Connaught, the prince of Wales, the landgrave of Hesse, the grand duke and grand duchess of Baden and the khedive of Egypt, all accompanied by brilliant suites.

The bride was met at the chapel entrance by the lady chamberlain and the bridesmaids, Princess Patricia of Connaught, her sister, Princess Victoria of Battenburg, Princess Mary of Wales and Princess Beatrice of Sax-Coburg. The archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the bishop of Oxford and others, read the simple service of the Church of England.

LUTHER'S FAVORITE CHAIR.

The Comfortable Seat Once Used by the Famous Evangelist—Used by Dr. Torrey.

London.—What is said to have been at one time the favorite chair of Martin Luther has been loaned to Dr. Torrey for his personal use while conducting revival meetings in London. The photograph of it here reproduced shows it on the platform of the big corrugated iron structure in the Strand, where the American evangelist is exhorting sinners to repentance. As an article of furniture there is nothing particularly striking or impressive about it. The carving on the framework is good, but not elaborate. It is a solid, substantial, well-built chair that no one need be afraid to sit down on. If Dr. Torrey does not sit down on it, he is at least assured of a good rest every time he plants himself in it. From the fact that the great religious reformer preferred it to the straight-backed, hard-bottomed chair of the period one would be justified in inferring that he did not believe in needless mortification of the flesh and could occasionally at least thoroughly enjoy taking life easy.

The history of the chair seems to be well authenticated by documentary evidence. In 1523 Luther married Katharine von Bora of Saxony, into whose family 22 years later a member of the Auraner family married. Martin Luther presented the chair to the newly-married couple as a wedding gift. That was about one year before his death. The chair has ever since remained in the possession of the Auraner family as a cherished heirloom. From Mrs. Auraner, who recently died at Truchtingen, Bavaria, it passed to her niece, Mrs. Cruickshank, now living in London. It was she who loaned it to Dr. Torrey.

A Plague of Mice.

In the town of Merriwa, in New South Wales, a plague of mice is disturbing the people. Recently 10,000 mice were killed in four days in one store. Upward of 500 were captured while a cricket net was being used. Four or five bushels of oats in a bag were appropriated by the mice in a night. A local well it was found to contain a solid mass of dead mice and on examination it was found to contain a solid mass of dead mice and on examination it was found to contain a solid mass of dead mice.

HAS HAD BUSY LIFE.

THOMAS F. RYAN, NEW OWNER OF EQUITABLE LIFE.

He Has Been a Power in Wall Street for Many Years—Rose from Poor Boy to Place of Influence.

New York.—Thomas F. Ryan has been at the head of nearly every financial deal of consequence that has been consummated in Wall street in the last decade. No one identified with that powerful and resourceful group of capitalists and financiers known as the Whitney syndicate has gained a wider measure of success than Mr. Ryan, though the public has never been acquainted with his methods, nor has it ever known of any big transaction contemplated by him until official announcement of it was made, says a special to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Mr. Ryan has a distaste for publicity. His secretiveness is such that his friends say his right hand never knows what his left is doing.

Mr. Ryan has been, time and again, such men as James R. Keene, James J. Hill and others of that class. Mr. Keene was signally discomfited when Ryan put through the stock exchange transaction by which control of the Third Avenue Railroad company was secured by the Metropolitan interests. His Wall street triumphs have been so numerous, in fact, that it is doubtful if Mr. Ryan himself is able to recall all of them.

Mr. Ryan is 54 years old. His career has been remarkable in many ways. Its most amazing feature is this—that he worked his way from absolute poverty to power and almost unlimited wealth. He was born in Nelson county, Va., on October 17, 1851, his maternal ancestors having been Scotch-Irish and his father's ancestors having come from the north of Ireland to Virginia before the revolution. His mother died when he was five years old, and he went to live with his grandmother.

Young Ryan left the homestead and went to Baltimore to seek his fortune. Without money or friends he had a hard row to hoe. By perseverance he finally secured a small position with John Barry's dry goods commission house. Two years later he struck out for New York. In this city he obtained a position with a banking house in which Barry was interested. Ryan was then 19. In two years he had gained, by close attention, a wonderful insight of finance.

This early training has stood him well in hand. At 21 he formed a stock exchange partnership and became his own boss. That was what he had been striving for all his life. He prospered so well that in 1874 he was able to purchase a seat on the stock exchange. There he continued in active business for ten years.

In this short period, Mr. Ryan, by his great capacity for work, original ideas, ability for execution, together with his quiet, unostentatious demeanor, attracted the attention of such heavyweights in the financial world as Jay Gould, Samuel J. Tilden, William R. Travers, John B. Traver and William C. Whitney. Mr. Whitney was especially impressed by the young man, and in 1886 took hold of him and together they began the work of consolidating the various railway and railroad lines in this city. Since then Mr. Ryan has extended his operations until he and his associates have consolidated about everything in sight, including steam railroads, electric light properties, gas companies and almost every known branch of industry and finance.

Mr. Ryan was the original promoter of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, which by degrees absorbed practically every line in Manhattan. He was one of the organizers of the Consolidated Traction company of Jersey City, which connected that city with neighboring towns and cities. He also is largely interested in the Atlantic Coast Electric line, which runs along the Jersey coast, taking in Long Branch.

Several years ago Mr. Ryan acquired the horse car lines on Staten island and changed the power to electricity. Incidentally he took in the electric lighting plants on Staten island.

The gas trust in New York is a sample of Mr. Ryan's handiwork. In this he was assisted by William C. Whitney and Anthony N. Brady, with the backing of the Standard Oil company. It would take a good deal of space to enumerate all the companies of which Mr. Ryan is a director.

Mr. Ryan, on November 25, 1873, married Miss Ida M. Barry, daughter of his first employer. His hobby is raising Holstein cattle, of which he has several hundred head. His kennels contain some of the finest dogs in the world. He is a member of many clubs, though he does not devote much time to them.

NOTED NEGRO CHARACTER.

Gen. Simon Sam, Former President of Hayti and His Unique Career.

San Juan, P. R.—Gen. Tiersias Simon Sam, former president of Hayti, and father of 80 sons and many daughters, has been driven from St. Thomas by the Danish authorities, having been given the preference of speedy departure or certain conviction and long imprisonment upon the charge of abduction made by a young girl.

Gen. Sam is a typical Haytian of the better class. He is a full-blooded negro, nearly 70 years old. He is of British descent and is a member of a respected family in Hayti. He married ried the niece of President Salomon, and was promoted by the latter to the rank of general of the district of Port au Prince. In this capacity he was ordered by Salomon toward the end of the latter's presidential term when he tried to check the revolution that finally expelled him, to seize upon suspected political adversaries and to shoot them by the cartload.

When in 1896 President Hippolyte was struck down by apoplexy Gen. Sam was unanimously elected president of Hayti and entered upon the duties of his office without a shot having been fired in support of his claim. Upon becoming president, on March 20, 1896, a complete change was wrought in the integrity of Gen. Sam, and he made no attempt to hide his intention to live up to the Haytian proverb that "Hayti is a cake to be divided among the fraternity and each one must get his little slice."

He contrived, with the aid of his French and German friends, to realize his scheme of consolidating the debts of the country, by which he involved the revenues of the country for 35 years and put into his pocket $7,000,000. When the fraud was discovered the people forced President Sam and his cabinet to leave the country.

After leaving Hayti Gen. Sam resided in Paris for some time, but, desirous of being nearer home, he returned to the West Indies and established his permanent residence at St. Thomas. One of the inland towns of Hayti is entirely populated by Sams, all of whom are either the children or grandchildren of the general.

GEN. WEYLER TO THE FORE

The "Butcher" of Cuban Fame Again a Member of the Spanish Cabinet.

Gen. Valeriano Weyler Y Nicolau, to whom has been given the war portfolio in the new Spanish cabinet, won a name for hideous brutality and repression while he was captain general in Cuba.

He was born in Palma, Balearic islands, in 1838, was educated at Grenada, and then entered the military schools, becoming a lieutenant of the staff in 1860. He obtained the rank of lieutenant general in 1878.

In 1896 Weyler was sent to Cuba to suppress the rebellion, and his methods there are too well known to be recapitulated. He also has been chief commander in the Philippines, and has fought in San Domingo.

He does not smoke or drink, but is very fond of bull fighting.

Booker T. Washington's Work. Booker T. Washington's Tuskegee school graduates this year in its academic and industrial departments 142 students, which brings the total number graduated in the 24 years of existence to nearly 1,000. This, however, is only a fraction of the number who have been trained more or less in the school. Very many have taken short terms and then gone out to get work. Nor do these figures indicate the breadth of the work and influence of the institution. No account is taken of its large school extension work or of the scattered 26 little Tuskegees that have grown up under its fostering care. There were upward of 1,500 students enrolled in all the departments of the school the past year. Among them were numerous foreigners—From Central America, the West Indies and Africa.

World's Largest Hospital. Berlin will shortly be able to boast that it contains the largest hospital in the world. The new institution, which is to be called after the famous physiologist, the Rudolf Virchow hospital, will be fitted with accommodations for 2,000 patients. When fully equipped it will have a staff of 650 physicians, nurses, attendants and servants. In connection with the hospital, there will be a pathological and anatomical laboratory, bath house with medical apparatus, a separate building also for apothecaries. Hitherto the largest German hospital was that at Eppendorf, near Hamburg, with accommodations for 1,600 patients.

FLIES UNION JACK.

OLD AMERICAN FRIGATE NOW A BRITISH TRAINING SHIP.

The President, Surrendered by Capt. Stephen Decatur in 1815, Is Now a Part of the English Naval Force.

London.—Lying in the river Thames is a frigate captured by the British from America in 1815. Its name is the President.

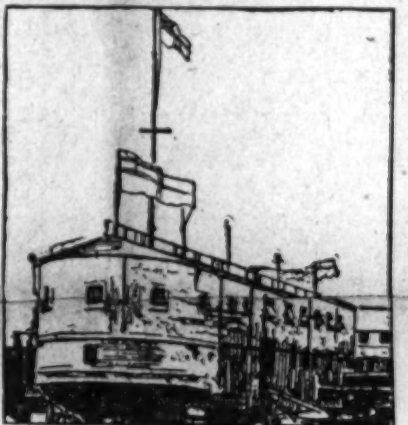

Few persons knew of the existence of this old vessel until the other day, when Lord Charles Beresford, commander in chief of the Mediterranean squadron, hoisted his flag at her peak to signify that he had assumed his new charge.

The story of how the President came to be a British prize is interesting. She was surrendered to overwhelming odds by Capt. Stephen Decatur outside Sandy Hook, having been cut to pieces in a battle with a superior vessel and then surrounded by four others. Escape was utterly out of the question, and so her flag was hauled down.

The President was one of the largest of the American frigates, rating 44 guns and carrying a large crew. Her first affair of importance was her encounter with the British sloop-of-war Little Belt, in command of Capt. Blagham, off the Cape, on May 16, 1811. The President was then commanded by Commodore Rogers, and, while none of her crew was killed, and only one—a boy—wounded, the British sloop lost 13 killed and 19 wounded.

The surrender to the British of the President took place on January 16, 1815. Two days before, under command of Capt. Stephen Decatur, the President had dropped down from the city to Sandy Hook. During the night she made an attempt to cross the bar and put to sea. From some cause never explained the pilot missed the channel and ran the ship on one of the shoals which obstruct the harbor, and for five hours she was detained.

As a squadron of British ships had been blockading the harbor for several weeks and had been blown off by a gale, the opportunity to run the President outside had been seized by Capt.

THE PRESIDENT. (Former American Frigate Now a British Training Ship.)

Decatur. The mishap caused by the pilot was therefore particularly unfortunate, resulting as it probably did in the loss to America of the fine frigate.

Early on the morning of January 15, while Capt. Decatur was headed south-east by east, he made out three strange sail, all within shot and all directly ahead of the President. The American vessel then was hauled up and passed to the northward, three miles distant.

When the day came it was found that there were four ships in pursuit of the President.

Decatur had on board a large quantity of stores, for use on a long cruise, and he at once took steps to lighten his ship. Anchors were cut away, water casks emptied, provisions, cables, spars, boats and all other articles that could be spared were thrown overboard. From the royals down the sails were kept wet, but as the wind was light and elusive the pursuers gained steadily.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the nearest ship was close enough and opened fire with her bow guns.

For nearly an hour the President endured the galling fire, each shot carrying away some of her rigging. Then Capt. Decatur determined to act and his crew cheerfully agreed with him. The President's helm was put up and her course changed so that she could get in close quarters with her opponent. The Englishman understood the scheme of Decatur and kept off. The ships meantime coming abreast and each delivering a broadside.

Then for two and a half hours the combatants, a quarter of a mile apart, ran dead ahead, but whenever the President made an attempt to close in the enemy sheered off, so that the action was altogether with the heavy guns.

When the four ships had come within gunshot, at 11 o'clock, the Pomona, one of them, at once began battle within gunshot distance, while the Tenedos, within two cable lengths, and the Majestic and the Dispatch, even closer astern, all opened fire.

Surrounded by a force vastly superior to his own and with one-fifth of his crew either dead or crippled, and his ship in such condition that to sail away was impossible, Capt. Decatur decided that it was his duty to surrender, which he did by hoisting a light to indicate his purpose.

The President's force was 32 long 24-pound guns, one 24-pound howitzer, 20 42-pound carronades and five small pieces in her tops.

On the President 24 men were killed and 56 wounded. The Endymion lost 11 killed and 14 wounded. There were no casualties on the other ships.

AVENUE OF VICTORY.

Berlin's Famous Boulevard to Be Reproduced in the City of Washington.

Berlin.—Here is a picture of Berlin's famous marble Siegesallee (Avenue of Victory), which American cablegrams report is to serve as model for a statutory lined avenue of American heroes in Washington—to be erected through the munificence of the lately deceased Chicago millionaire lumberman, Benjamin F. Fergusson. The Siegesallee, which is one of Berlin's great show sights, is a personal gift to the city from Kaiser Wilhelm, and represents his own artistic idea. It bisects the beautiful Thiergarten park at the north end, stretching for a quarter of a mile from the giant Column of Victory in Koenigsplatz to the intersection of Bellevueallee and Thiergartenstrasse. It is adorned on either side with marble statues of Prussian rulers, 32 groups in all, beginning with the earliest Markgrafs and continuing up to the time of the present emperor's grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm the Great. Behind the figure of each ruler, which is considerably more than life size in glittering white marble, is a semi-circular bench bearing at either end busts of two eminent contemporaries. Beside Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, for instance, are the busts of Moltke and Bismarck. It is said the present emperor has reserved a space in theallee for his own statue, which, he hopes, will be erected by grateful posterity.

The Siegesallee, besides constituting a magnificent selection of modern German sculpture, is a splendid lesson in history and patriotism for young Germany. Almost any afternoon troops of school children may be seen tramping up and down theallee in charge of teachers, who explain the significant things about the reign of each ruler, and about the two great men worthy of being immortalized in marble alongside of him. The statue of Frederick the Great in the Siegesallee was the original of the bronze presented by the Kaiser to the city of Washington a year ago.

In spring and summer, when the beautiful foliage of the Thiergarten is in full bloom and blossom, the Siegesallee is a gorgeous sight. It is sometimes made fun of by the hypercritical Berliners as being too funeral in aspect, and as giving a cemetery look to the park, but the avenue will stand for all time as a monument to patriotism and artistic sense of the strenuous William II.

The Siegesallee represents a cost of $1,000,000, and was paid for from the private purse of the Kaiser.

BRITISH MUNICIPAL GLORY.

A New $9,000,000 Building Is to House the London County Council.

London.—The London county council has sanctioned the purchase of a site on the south bank of the Thames, opposite the houses of parliament, at a cost of $3,000,000, on which to erect a county hall at an additional cost of about $5,280,000, with a river embankment costing $220,000. There will be a frontage of 800 feet on the river and

DESIGN FOR LONDON'S NEW COUNTY COUNCIL HALL.

If the building is architecturally successful it will form with St. Thomas' hospital and Lambeth palace, also on the south side, a magnificent group of public buildings.

The definite plans for the building are not yet completed, and the drawing is not intended as other than a sketch scheme. At present the site consists of some unsightly wharves at the southeast end of Westminster bridge, but it is proposed to house in a great county hall the county council, which controls the local government of London, with the exception of the square mile of the city which remains under the historic lord mayor at the Mansion House. All the administrative offices will be contained in the building, together with the council chamber.

Told of the President. Representative Cushman relates that when President Roosevelt was in the state of Washington last year, he had a most enthusiastic reception. At one of the gatherings an old frontiersman confided to Mr. Cushman that Roosevelt was the greatest man he ever saw and the greatest man who ever visited the northwest. On being asked for the reason of his judgment the man replied: "Why, Roosevelt is the only man I ever saw who looks worse than his cartoons."

POVERTY TO POWER.

CAREER OF SECRETARY LESLIE M. SHAW, OF IOWA.

Is Called the "David Harum" of the President's Cabinet—Got a Start Selling Fruit Trees.

Washington.—"David Harum in the cabinet." That is the term of affectionate endearment often applied to Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury. Is it to be "David Harum in the white house?" That is the question which Secretary Shaw's friends answer most enthusiastically in the affirmative, in which answer Mr. Shaw is supposed secretly to concur.

The bustling west, of which Mr. Shaw is a type, is made up in its most successful population of "Yankees," who have migrated, settled and made fertile and prosperous the feudal land, says the Star. The stony farms of Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and the wooded slopes of Maine have contributed to the bone, sinew and brains of the land beyond the Mississippi.

Leslie M. Shaw is a fitting example of a class. He spent his youth in the hard school of a narrow New England life. Born in Vermont in 1848, he lived in the little town of Stowe. He received a good education at the academy at Morrisville and when he was 21 years of age went to Iowa. He earned the means to graduate himself from the Iowa College of Law in 1876.

He is the son of Boardman Ozias Shaw, whose father, Ebenezer Shaw, was one of the earliest settlers and first selectman of Morrisville, Vt. His mother was a daughter of Jason Spaulding, a teacher of some reputation in the eastern part of New York state. Boardman Shaw moved to a farm in Stowe, Vt., where Leslie M. Shaw spent his minority. Leslie M. Shaw was dependent upon his own efforts in obtaining an education, but with characteristic persistence went to work. He taught school in the winter and worked in the harvest fields in the summer. Several winters he tramped all over northwestern Iowa selling fruit trees and nursery stock. His energy was wonderful and he was determined to succeed in spite of his poverty. After years of hard work he earned sufficient to complete his college and professional courses and was graduated from the Iowa college in 1876. In the same year he located in the practice of his profession at Dennison.

This keen young Yankee, anxious to "get ahead," as they say out west, looked about him for the best way to make some ready money quickly. He realized that dollars would breed dollars mightily fast in that region and that time, given a reasonable number of dollars with which to begin. His start was humble enough. He loaded up with a stock of fruit trees and started out to sell them to the farmers. Iowa needed fruit trees in those days.

Most of them were Yankees, and in the long winter evenings their mouths watered for the succulent apples of the old homestead. Shaw resolved that apples were his long suit and he set out scores and scores of the great orchards of Iowa. He dealt fairly and in "delivering the goods" made friends. He became known throughout all that region.

Thus, when he started up as a lawyer he had friends, ready made, among the farmers. Litigation there was in plenty; no one ever accused a New Englander of readiness to give up a point claimed in his own favor if the courts could help him sustain it. Mr. Shaw in those days was a natural born trader, they say. Between law cases he traded for anything in sight. Pretty soon he saw a chance to trade in farm mortgages. He and his law firm would deal in mortgages and attend to the law part of the trade as a side issue.

Pretty soon, as the prospect opened, they felt the need of more capital. Nothing easier than to start a bank in connection with the law firm. Thus they sought the clients, coming and going. Up to the outbreak of the Bryan fever, in 1896, Leslie M. Shaw was nothing but a business man and a lawyer. He had a class in Sunday school and used to get them into debates. Then he got to addressing schools and like assemblies. First thing he knew the politicians got their eye on him. Good talkers were wanted about that time.

He could tell a cracking good story and keep an audience interested. He was earnestly opposed to free silver, his banking experience giving him the cue in that direction. The republicans took him up and ran him for governor, electing him. In 1902 he was asked to become secretary of the treasury and accepted. He still knows a good Iowa mortgage when he sees one.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

In another column of THE BEE will be read with interest the report from a Democratic paper published in Culpeper, Va., of the proceedings of a council which adopted the "Jim Crow" car law in the State. It will also be seen that Mr. Epps was the Democrat to urge the adoption of the "Jim Crow" car law. It will also be seen that Hon. Frank Hume of Virginia, a member of the council, offered an amendment for the purpose of killing the bill. Mr. Willard, also a Democrat, also offered an amendment for a similar purpose. Mr. Willard is a candidate for governor of Virginia. If he secures the nomination every colored voter in the State should vote for him, no matter what Republican is nominated. Both Mr. Hume and Mr. Willard have done more to defeat the "Jim Crow" car law than all the pretended white Republicans in the State. The colored voter can justly and conscientiously divide in the coming election. The time has come for the colored voter in all States to throw away sentiment and support men and measures from principle. If Mr. Willard should receive the Democratic nomination, ought colored men to vote against him? Here are two prominent Democrats who voted in the interest of right and justice. No respectable colored voter in the State should vote against either if they should come before the people. It can be seen that the bitter feeling was manifested against the "Washington negro" was in the heart and mind of men who had no love for truth and justice. Some colored men in this city may be impudent and noisy. There are others who know how to respect ladies, white and colored, and will at all times behave themselves in the presence of ladies. There was a time when the Southern gentleman could trust the colored man. He was then his slave and he the master. The colored man has been liberated and educated and knows right from wrong. Is it his education and progress that have prejudiced some white men? The colored man has more sense to-day than he had prior to and subsequent to reconstruction. It is only a pretext for the enemies of the colored man to oppose the masses, when one of their number commits an offense. It is to be regretted that the conduct of the "Washington negro" was the cause for the establishment of the "Jim Crow" cars in the State of Virginia. From the tenor of the speech of one of the Democratic speakers, the "Washington negro" was the whole cause of the "Jim Crow" car law. What sensible man will believe it? Neither Mr. Hume nor Mr. Willard thought so. They were willing to give justice and treat the colored Virginians fairly. THE BEE urges every reader to read this report. THE BEE tenders its thanks to those two distinguished Virginians, Messrs. Hume and Willard and the three others who voted for the amendment. Let the colored men of Virginia and elsewhere vote for men and not for party. It will be to their interest.

A HOT BOX.

There is in one corner of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing an apartment designated as the "rag house." It is a corner in which all colored men are employed. No white man is known to remain in this "rag house," either as foreman or laborer. It is a hot box, and it looks as if that this particular corner was set apart for colored laborers. It is too warm in this place for molasses cake. There are but two windows facing west, two doors fronting north and no windows or doors south. It is said that the brick wall on the south holds so much heat in winter, let alone summer, that makes it suffocating to the colored employees. Just who is responsible for the condition of affairs in this "Jim Crow" corner THE BEE is unable to state. It is time that this branch is under the supervision of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the Bureau under the control of the Treasury Department. THE BEE begs leave to call the attention of Secretary Shaw to this "hot box" and "Jim Crow" corner, of which he has no knowledge, it is believed. This corner contains colored laborers only, and just why some white laborers are not appointed in this section of the Bureau THE BEE is unable to state. It will be seen that a BEE representative called a few weeks ago for the purpose of making an investigation of this particular department, and what he found there is beyond the ability of THE BEE to state. Whomever has charge of this particular section, it is evident that he has systematically arranged the colored men designated there for this place. Anyone with a drop of humanity in his blood would certainly remedy the evil and hardship that exists in this place. THE BEE begs leave to call the attention of Secretary Shaw to it and hopes that he will give these colored employees relief.

POLICE MANUAL.

The last part of the new police manual was made public Tuesday by Major Sylvester. The first part was printed some days ago. The manual will be distributed among the policemen the latter part of the week, and it is expected to produce good results. One feature of the new manual is a series of questions and answers which deal with all phases of police duty. There is a series of questions and answers relating more particularly to the specific duties of the policemen, as to when and where he may use his club or pistol; how to make an arrest; and what follows the arrest; definition of the more common crimes for which policemen make arrests in cases such as murder, manslaughter, felony, housebreaking, grand larceny, petit larceny, riot, rape, robbery, assault of various kinds, arson, etc. The answer to the last of the questions, which is in regard to the essential requisites of a good policeman, is as follows:

"Honesty, truthfulness, sobriety, courage, intelligence, good morals, good temper, promptitude, impartiality and respectful address."

The policemen will be thoroughly drilled so that they will understand the meaning of the questions and answers.

DR. GRAY.

The citizens in the northwest should feel themselves highly honored by having a first class drug store situated in True Reformers' Hall. This drug store is managed by that highly cultured young man, Mr. W. S. Gray, and his most talented and amiable wife, with the brother of Dr. Gray as his assistant. This store is an ornament to the neighborhood. Such a store is what the people in this section want. Then again thousands of delegates from the True Reformers, St. Luke's and other organizations meet in this hall semi-annually and annually, not saying anything about another great organization that meets in this hall. The store is an absolute necessity. There is only one thing more needed, and that is a post-office for the accommodation of the many thousand delegates that meet in this hall in which the drug store is located.

NEW DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

President Roosevelt has named Mr. D. W. Baker, of the firm of Lambert & Baker, for United States District Attorney, to succeed Mr.

Morgan H. Beach, who resigned. This appointment has given universal satisfaction and the people are jubilant because they believe that their wishes have been respected. Mr. Baker is a Republican and a man in whom the people have confidence.

It is believed that Mr. Baker will raise the dignity of the office and place it upon such a plane as will command the admiration of the bar and the country. Mr. Baker is a strong man and a lawyer who has the respect and confidence of the bar. President Roosevelt could not have made a more suitable appointment.

TRUE REFORMERS.

This well known organization is doing great work in this country. In this city alone Mr. W. R. Griffin, chief of the Washington Division and manager of the store in this city, is a man of remarkable executive ability. He has several competent assistants, all of whom are popular among the people. The store and office are well managed and the affairs of the organization are handled in first-class style. Elsewhere in THE BEE will be seen and read with interest the amount paid out and to whom paid, which shows the wonderful work of this great organization.

After all the fuss and fume, the colored bricklayers working on the War College at the Washington barracks are doing up to date work. There are seventeen now working on this great military building.

The Washington Bee which celebrated its 25th anniversary Monday evening June 5th, is now advocating a first-class daily Negro newspaper to be established in Washington, D. C., to be established in the interest of the colored people. With a population of ninety thousand colored people in that city this would be an easy task and a paying business enterprise, providing the colored people would give their patronage.—The Echo.

The Washington Bee says: "Secretary of War Taft's speech before the Ohio Republican convention killed his chance for the presidency. The Bee is going to wait and see where the Bee is going to stand Judge Taft.—The Standard and Observer."

"A PECULIAR PEOPLE."

DR. SIMON P. W. DREW, D.D., WON HIS LAWSUIT.

(From the True Reformer.)
Rev. Simon P. W. Drew, D.D., pastor of the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church, 708 O street N. W., Washington, has just won one of the greatest victories in the history of the church circle in this country. It was that famous lawsuit in connection with the Metropolitan Baptist Church, restraining him from entering the church. The sole cause of the disturbance in the church was that Rev. Drew was invited by the deacons, trustees and the church to come to Washington, January 17, 1904, to conduct a series of evangelistic meetings in the Metropolitan Baptist Church, the said church was formerly pastored by that great Gospel preacher and giant leader, Rev. Robert Johnson, but, owing to his long illness, was numerically, financially and spiritually dead, and unable to hold its regular service in the main auditorium, on account of the lack of fuel. Rev. Drew appeared on the spot on Sunday, January 17, 1904, and spoke the blessed word of our Saviour, "Peace, be still, was dead, and behold I am alive forever more."

Less than eight weeks this great evangelist Drew, through his powerful and gifted preaching, had brought the church to life again and the auditorium with a seating capacity of 3,000 was unable to accommodate the crowd that wished to hear this great and powerful Gospel preacher.

Through his powerful preaching six hundred and seventy persons gave their names to join the church.

A day selected by the church and set aside called "Drew Day," and the entire collection was to compensate him for his strong efforts and great success, to which all the people rallied and the nice amount of $600 was given him.

Rumors were then circulated that this man Drew was neither licensed nor an ordained minister.

Nevertheless, the Metropolitan Baptist Church met in its regular meeting March 25, 1904, and elected Rev. Drew temporary pastor for six months, until the expiration of one year, on account of the death of their late pastor, Rev. Dr. Johnson.

Rev. Drew never served the church one day, owing to the above rumor. The court issued an injunction, restraining him from officiating at the church until the said court could pass upon the matter. The majority of the members at once went out and met at 708 O street, and Rev. Drew preached to them until the matter could be settled by the court. The minority extended a call to Dr. N. D. W. Norman, of Portsmouth. The court finally passed upon the matter on Tuesday, June 13th, and in the finding of the Court of Appeals Justice Dyer rendered a decision as follows:

The law of the District requires, in event of one party asking the court to restrain another party, that they shall first give bonds; therefore at the time the said court restrained Rev. Drew from discharging his duty as pastor of said church, no such undertaking was entered into according to the law of the District. The court therefore reverses the decision of the lower court, with costs to be paid by Drew's accusers, Andrew Hagen, Geo. Smith, Berrell Hill and others.

By virtue of the decision, Rev. Drew is pastor of two churches, Metropolitan Baptist Church and Cosmopolitan Baptist Church.

This is a great victory for Rev. Drew, and one great achievement for a Christian world.

Rev. Drew is the seventh son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drew. He was born August 6, 1870, on the line of Virginia and North Carolina (Margaretville, North Carolina), and he was converted and baptized at the age of twelve years in Virginia by Rev. P. O. Waldron, A. M., D. D., pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church. He was educated in the public schools of the same State, and his early days he was called a child preacher. He read theology in Shaw University and New York College. He was licensed by St. Paul Baptist Church, New York city, and was ordained October 29, 1890, by Baptist Council at the call of Sixth Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Long Island City, New York; the late Rev. B. H. Walder, moderator; L. W. Smith, secretary; Rev. Wm. T. Dixon, D. D., catechist; Rev. R. D. Winn, D. D., moderator of ordination. Rev. Drew was married to Miss Clara Blanchie Thomas, a public school teacher of Richmond, November 23, 1898, by the late Rev. Jas. H. Holmes, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, Richmond, Va. Rev. Drew organized and built St. Stephen's Baptist Church, Long Island City, N. Y., and remained pastor seven years, until he was called as pastor of one of the largest and oldest colored churches in the New England Convention—St. Paul's Baptist Church, Boston, Mass.

Rev. Drew is undoubtedly one of the greatest financiers and evangelistic preachers of the world. He is also first cousin to Prof. Emory E. Fennell, A. B., professor of Greek and Science, Virginia Theological Seminary and College, Lynchburg, Va. Rev. Drew is a round faced, jolly man, with a very pleasing personality.

He comes from one of the best families in the South. He has traveled very extensively, conducting some of the most successful revival meetings of the age. He is purely a race man, being identified with many race organizations. He is corresponding secretary of the Parmeli Normal Industrial School and College at Parmeli, N. C. He is a great lover of the True Reformers, and is working up one of the largest clubs in Washington.

He is handsomely located in his home, 2014 Eighth street northwest, Washington, D. C.

HARRY TOOMY DEAD.

Master Harry Toomy, son of Lieut. and Mrs. R. E. S. Toomy, died Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, 11th inst., at their home, Greenville, Tenn. Master Toomy was a bright boy and his death is a shock to his many friends. Lieut. and Mrs. Toomy have the sympathy of many friends and acquaintances.

Captain Peter Green, of the little fish, ing schooner Tecumseh, discovered floating about at night on the waters off Georges Banks, a black painted coffin, in which was a dead man, who stared with glassy eyes. The coffin was hooked and drawn alongside the vessel. The captain ordered it weighted with rock and sunk.

tieman with whom I am well acquainted and whose record is unquestioned. He is widely known as a successful pastor and evangelist and an able preacher of God's word. He was licensed and ordained in New York City by one of the best councils in this country; and has successfully labored throughout New England and the West. He has certainly proved at Washington to be the right man in the right place. Mrs. Drew is a helpmeet to him in the true sense of the word. She is intelligent, amiable, affable, kind and affectionate. She is a graduate of Richmond, Va., and was one of the leading school teachers of that State. Mrs. Drew is a model housekeeper and like her husband, knows how to make one happy in their home. Dr. Drew has lately won the most wonderful law suit that has ever been waged against a church of Christ. Too much cannot be said in praise of Hon. Hugh T. Taggart and Hon. W. Calvin Chase, Esq., who so ably defended Dr. Drew before the Supreme Court and brought the greatest victory that ever has been won, to Dr. Drew.

Rev. Lindsay of Miles Chapel is an entertaining speaker. His address was full of eloquence. Rev. Fennell said in part:

This young divine spent the early part of his boyhood days near Margarettsville, N. C. Unlike most youths of his time, he showed great promise of a brilliant future. While a small boy, his teachers realized that he was more than an ordinary boy. He so mastered his lessons that there and then he laid well the foundation for a brilliant future career. He did not always stand first in class, but when he was not first he was second, and as soon as the one who was first in the class failed, he would then assume that position. He was exceedingly studious. You could find him toiling with his books late and early, and no lesson seemed to difficult for him to master.

He seemed to have been destined for a leader. He knew how and would gather around him the boys of the community in which he resided, and would counsel them just as a leading man would counsel his followers. He was very amiable as a schoolmate and playmate. He was loved by his fellow companions and doubtless has been the means of shaping the life of many a boy in the right manner. He was called by the older people the "boy-preacher," because early in life he exhibited the qualities of one called to preach. He was converted at an early age, and conducted his life in accordance with that of a Christian.

While in his teens, young Drew went to New York, and there continued his education, which prepared him for the Gospel ministry. He never allowed the thought that dominated his early life to go unheeded. The tone of his letters that he wrote from time to time showed that he was still an active Christian and a strong disciple of Christ, even in that great Metropolis. In that very city he connected himself with a church and later built a church and pastored the same. Thus his life continued in this way, and to-day we know him as a great evangelist and pulpit orator. May this young divine live long to do much for the uplift of humanity and for the glorifying of the Lord on earth.

Rev. Drew responded as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: Language is inadequate to express my appreciation for the many words of encouragement and other tokens of appreciation and esteem which you have generously tendered me. I am ever mindful of the fact that I should say something to let you know that the honor and esteem which you have for me are duly appreciated. The hospitality which you have given me has been treasured up in my heart, as a priceless jewel. It will forever abide with me; and whatever success I have been able to achieve in this field of religious labor, I sincerely attribute a portion to the Almighty God and your kindness and devotion. I have labored among you I believe as a messenger of God, My efforts have met with some opposition, but by the help of God and by your loyal support, we are able to-day to celebrate this occasion with thanksgiving and praise for the victory we have won. I have had your support not only in words, but your contributions have continued and have enabled us to overcome many difficulties which we could not otherwise have overcome. I extend to you my heartfelt thanks for what the Lord has put into your hearts to give, and I pledge you my word and honor to utilize it to promote this work.

Prof. Fennell read the following preamble and resolution which were adopted unanimously by rising vote:

Whereas, God in his infinite judgment, has allowed truth and justice to triumph over hypocrisy and deception,

And Whereas, the decision of the Court of Appeals in the Metropolitan Baptist Church case, which liberated the pastor, Rev. Simon P. W. Drew, George Robinson, Esq., and Rev. William Howard, from an unjust decision, it is but proper that some expression should emanate from the members of the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church, who have always believed that God would allow truth and honesty to triumph. We have the most abiding faith in the honesty and integrity of our pastor and Rev. Howard and Mr. George Robinson, who have been vindicated by the decision of the Court of Appeals.

We desire to express our gratitude to Hon. Hugh T. Taggart, of Counsel, who heroically and manfully defended the interest of the Church and the men who were liberated. We tender to him our heartfelt gratitude. We also tender to W. Calvin Chase, Esq., Attorney and Editor, who directed, managed and defended the interest of the Church and its members. We are not less thankful to Edward Forrest, Esq., and all sympathizing friends, who gave their legal and moral support to the cause of our Church. Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the members of the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church tender their gratitude and appreciation to Hon. Hugh T. Taggart, Edward Forrest, Esq., and W. Calvin Chase, Esq.

Resolved, further, That by the decision of the Supreme Court of Appeals the bona fide members of the Metropolitan Baptist Church have a right to take possession of said Church and not the unlawful intruders. That over four hundred members in good standing have been wrongfully excluded by fraud and usurpation from said Church.

Resolved, further, That we pledge sufficient means to counsel to see that justice and right prevail.

REV. BIRCHETT.

By special invitation of Rev. Simon P. W. Drew, D. D., Rev. J. L. Birchett, B. D., of New York, attended his reception given in his honor last Thursday evening. Dr. Birchett delivered a masterly address on that occasion which did great credit to himself and the occasion. He brought greetings from the brethren of New York and New Jersey. Rev. Birchett is a pulpit orator of the first magnitude; he has pastored successfully in both New Jersey and New York City. He is also an able evangelist. He has conducted many and successful revivals in both New England and the South. Dr. Birchett's services are ever in demand; he has many engagements already to conduct revivals this fall. While in Washington he was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Drew. Besides the oration Dr. Birchett delivered two of the ablest sermons that have ever been heard in the district, at 8 P. M. Friday and 11 A. M. Sunday. He leaves Sunday afternoon for Baltimore, Md., where he is booked to preach for Rev. A. Brown, D. D. Rev. Birchett made an enviable record in Washington. He is now en route from Virginia to his home at 429 Monmouth street, Jersey City, N. J. Also Prof. E. E. Fennell, A. B., Professor of Greek and Science of Virginia Seminary and College at Lynchburg, Va., was the guest of his cousin, Dr. Drew, at 2014 8th street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

SOUTH WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

Mr. H. E. Johnson, one of the most accomplished cooks in the dining car service, received a well deserved compliment from the Pennsylvania Railroad officials. It is said by many of those who from time to time have come in contact with Mr. Johnson at his usual duties, that he is one of the fastest in the business, even though standing at the weight of two hundred and fifty pounds. To add to the competency of his position as chief cook, he is a highly respected gentleman socially, which has greatly aided him in his great success through life, and especially with his chosen profession as chief cook. Mr. Johnson is always chosen from a large number of chiefs of the company for all of their special and high class parties who travel over the road, including the head officials of the Pennsylvania system. He was recently assigned to the new fast train running between New York and Chicago, which train has lowered all previous records between the two cities from about twenty-five hours to eighteen hours. The above is the agreed schedule, but the first trip of the train was even faster than the above, having made the long run in a little more than sixteen hours.

Dr. P. B. Brooks, who is one of the best colored physicians in this city, is one of the busiest men in the southwest section. He is a young man whose whole heart is in his work, which has been the cause of his success in his profession.

A large number of the members and friends went from the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church and also from the Israel C. M. E. Church, southwest, respectively, to the Union Wesley A. M. E. Church, on Twenty-third street, northwest, where the Rev. Cleaves, the pastor of Israel C. M. E. Church, delivered a sermon. The church was filled to overflowing. Rev. Cleaves is a grand speaker and has made a great reputation for himself by building up the church, which was much in need of the able work of some good and strong man who was willing and able to fight against a strong opposition.

Miss Hattie Brown, one of South Washington's most accomplished young ladies, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jones Monday evening, July 10th, at which time a pleasant time was enjoyed. Miss Brown has a host of friends in all sections of the city and is highly respected by all who know her.

THE AMPHIONS.

The Amphions have announced a mid-summer outing Saturday evening, July 22, 1905, on the steamer Jane Moseley, which will leave her wharf at 6.30 sharp. Those who know of the former affairs by this organization, can appreciate this, which is the last one for this season.

HOME AGAIN.

Mr. Ellsworth Grymes of this city, and a member of the Minute Men Association, has returned to his home again from Portland, Oregon, where he has been for some time setting up the exhibits of the United States Treasury Department. Mr. Grymes' stay in Portland was a most pleasant one. On his return home July 5th he was surprised most agreeably. After two weeks at home he was greeted with a fine boy. The mother and baby are doing well.

GARFIELD, D. C. NOTES.

The ladies of the Alpha Charity Club of Garfield held their first anniversary at the residence of Mr. A. L. Smith last week. A large number of the friends of the club were present, including visitors from the Alpha of Anacostia. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Taylor, who has been a great friend and helper to the club. The annual report was read by the secretary, which showed a grand work done by the Alpha last winter in relieving the suffering poor. More than fifty dollars had been raised by entertainments and garments made and turned into money. Short speeches were made by A. W. Carroll and others. After the exercises were concluded the large dining room of Mr. Smith's was thrown open and the guests enjoyed the fruits of a finely prepared table and a social good time until a late hour.

The members of the Allen Chapel, A. M. E. Church, and Emmanuel Baptist Church observed the Fourth of July by treating the members of their Sunday schools.

Mr. W. Lewis, of Garfield Heights, has a very ill child.

Mrs. Amanda Forrest left on the 10th inst. to spend some time in Atlantic City.

Rev. J. W. Travers, of St. Paul's A. M. E. Church, preached at Allen Chapel on July 3d.

The Garfield Citizens Association met at their regular monthly meeting July 6th, A. W. Carroll presiding. The committee on public schools submitted a very encouraging report as to the work done by that committee toward securing for Garfield much needed new school building. The chairman of the committee on law and order reported the urgent need of a stationary police officer in Garfield, and recommended that the attention of the proper authorities be called to the matter in the near future. The officers are: A. W. Carroll, president; W. Lewis, vice-president; J. E. Young, chaplain; J. E. Young, Jr., secretary; Mr. Ambush, sergeant-at-arms.

Capt. Wm. Shields won the pants.

Mr. Geo. R. Robinson is entitled to much credit for the work that he performed in the Metropolitan Church case. The Bee as well as the people know how he worked.

MR. WILLARD AGAINST THE JIM CROW CAR BILL.

He said that he was in something of a dilemma. He did not altogether agree with Mr. Epps; he did not altogether agree with Mr. Baker, and he was not quite sure that he altogether agreed with himself. Mr. McAllister said he and Mr. Epps agreed on the main features of the Epps bill, but Mr. Epps did not agree to some of the features of the McAllister bill. He desired, he said, to insert into the Epps bill the provision requiring the assignment of the races to separate seats in waiting rooms, and empowering the agent to eject such passengers as occupied seats other than those assigned to them. He thought it just as essential that the races should be separated in waiting rooms as in passenger cars.

Mr. Churchman interrupted Mr. McAllister with the very pertinent query, if it was not unconstitutional to enact two laws under one head. Mr. McAllister replied affirmatively, but asserted that he was not seeking to enact two laws.

He desired further to insert in the Epps bill the provisions of his bill, on punishing riotous conduct on board the trains or any railroad station property.

WANTED LEGISLATION.

Mr. McAllister, reverting to Mr. Churchman's query, said he did not think his amendments rendered the bill unconstitutional. He did not want to do anything that would militate against the bill; he wanted legislation on this subject as much as Mr. Epps, or any one else did. He wanted to provide for protecting the unprotected female travelers, who frequently have to wait for hours at a time in railway stations. If he could not get what he wanted, Mr. McAllister said he would vote for Mr. Epps' bill.

Mr. Baker thought it would be impossible for the provisions of the McAllister amendments to be carried out, putting the railroad companies to the expense of employing special policemen at every station. He referred to the multitudinous duties of the local country agent, who is usually ticket seller, telegraph operator and master of trains, and said at train times he would have no time to attend to the comfort of passengers.

MR. HUME'S AMENDMENT.

Mr. Hume offered an amendment so as to make it apply to through electric lines operating in the state. He referred especially to the electric lines about Alexandria, running to Mt. Vernon and to Washington, and so worded his amendment as not to make the provisions of the act apply to street cars doing strictly street business.

Mr. Epps asserted that his bill had stood the test of the Supreme Court of Appeals of the United States, and he besought the members of the Committee to load the bill down with amendments. If they would introduce separate bills to carry out what they sought to have enacted, he would vote for it.

Mr. Fitzpatrick favored the Epps bill as it stood, without the dotting of an i or the crossing of a t. He did not approve of Mr. McAllister's amendments.

MR. WILLARD WANTED EXEMPTION.

Mr. Willard spoke of the importance of the railway communication with Washington through his section. He said after a hard fight his people had secured capital to build the road from the south side of the Potomac to run through Alexandria and Fairfax counties. He thought the Epps bill would act as a prohibitive, and he, therefore, offered an amendment "that nothing in this act shall apply to roads operating exclusively in the counties of Alexandria and Fairfax; or in the counties of Fairfax and Alexandria and the District of Columbia."

Mr. Lion opposed Mr. Willard's amendment "that nothing would act as a prohibitive, and he, therefore, offered an amendment "that nothing in this act shall apply to roads operating exclusively in the counties of Alexandria and Fairfax, or in counties of Fairfax and Alexandria and the District of Columbia."

Mr. Lion opposed Mr. Willard's amendment. He was opposed to making fish of one and fowl of another; if one road was exempted, others should be.

The Hume and Willard amendments were voted down. The McAllister amendments were voted on as a whole and were lost. Mr. Hume voted alone for his amendment. Mr. Willard's amendment received a vote of 5 to 6, as did also Mr. McAllister's.

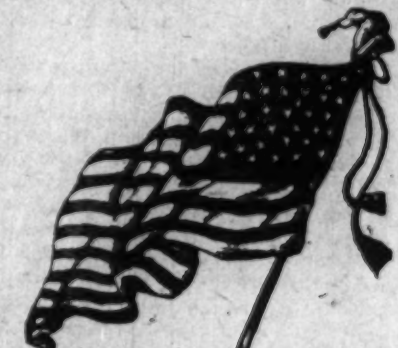

Mr. Epps bill exempted through express trains doing no local business, and Mr. McAllister desired to amend this provision by inserting the words "no" and "business." This was also lost by a vote of 5 to 6.

The vote then recurred on the Epps bill, and it was adopted by the same vote. Messrs. Epps, Churchman, Baker, Lyons, Jones and Hutchinson voting for it. Messrs. Pilcher, Willard, Hubbard, Hume and McAllister voting against it. Messrs. Lewis and Ryan were paired, Mr. Ryan being absent.

From the above it is seen that Mr. Willard wanted all roads operating exclusively in the counties of Alexandria and Fairfax and the District of Columbia exempted from the provisions of the bill, and that he offered an amendment to that effect, which was defeated by a plurality of only one vote. In our opinion there is far more need of a Jim Crow car on trains coming in and out of Washington City than on trains anywhere else in Virginia. For it is a well known fact that the negroes who live in Washington City are the ones that are most obtrusive and aggressive in forcing themselves into equal privileges with the white people. And it is down for his amendment. Mr. Willard's should have sought to serve his constituents by seeking to deprive them of the comforts of railway travel in a car so which negroes, especially the impudent and insolent ones from Washington City, would not be admitted. Did such action constitute a regard for the welfare of his constituents, the white people of Alexandria and Fairfax counties, by whose votes, exclusively, he had been honored with a seat in the General Assembly of Virginia? If he was willing to thus serve the people of his section in close contact with the Washington negro, it is certainly safe to assume that he would have done the same thing for the whole state of Virginia. Indeed, this fact was demonstrated by his vote against the bill, as a whole, after his amendments had been voted down. Of all the disagreeable human beings upon the earth, the Washington darkey, with his exaggerated ideas of freedom and equality, is infinitely the worst. Mr. Willard's long residence and vast interests in Washington have doubtless fact. There, burly negro women have been known to sit in the laps of white ladies when there was no other seat to be had in the street car. Just imagine what their conduct would have been on the Alexandria and Fairfax county lines had Mr. Willard's desires and wishes been carried out. Knowing that all over Virginia, with the exception of those two counties, negroes were not allowed in the same car with white people, they would have taken especial delight in making themselves as disagreeable and obnoxious as possible to the ladies and children upon those Fairfax and Alexandria lines. It is a well known fact that, since the passage of the Jim Crow Car Bill in Virginia, the Washington darkey has become well nigh intolerable. Unless a gentleman would get into a vulgar street brawl he has to give way and make room for the Washington "coon" in nine cases out of ten.

And such is the action of the gentleman now asking the white people of Virginia to elevate him to the high position of the Democratic nominee—the white people's nominee, for no negro participates in the primary—for Governor of the grand old Commonwealth of Virginia. This is Mr. Willard's record, upon which, as he has repeatedly declared, he is content to stand. After years of suffering from the insolent darkey—since the civil war—a move is made by a Virginian to give us relief from an unbearable nuisance. And Mr.

The Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Georgetown, has accepted the plans and specifications made by J. A. Lankford, architect, for a new addition, repairing and overhauling their church. They will put in the latest improvements, steam heat system, electric and gas lighting, modern plumbing, metallic ceiling and sliding partition doors to Sunday school room, in fact the entire church is to be overhauled as new, at a cost of about seven thousand dollars.

MACEDONIA BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Macedonia Baptist Church is being overhauled from top to bottom at a cost of about two thousand dollars, by J. A. Lankford. We also note that Mr. Lankford is building Mrs. Sarah Waddell of Jersey City, N. J., a large apartment house on the corner of 4th and Wilson street, N. W., LeDroit Park. On July 10 he began a nice 6-room cot-

MT. PISGAH NOTES.
Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin. If God so clothes the grass, will He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith. Man is as the grass that grows up and is soon faded. The immortality is not so. It grows to perfection. Consider the shortness of life and the length of a never ending eternity.
As for man his days are as grass. As a flower of the field, so he flourishes. I am the Vine and ye are the branches. And a flower will live longer if its stem is in the water; so will a creature in Christ.
The flowers appear and the time of

CHANGES BRIDES TO SUIT.

Widow of 38, Failing Groom, He Proposes to Damsel of 18 and Couple Is Married.

Baltimore, Md.—Mrs. Ida Gossnell, a widow of 38, was to have married John C. Dorer, nine years her junior, and arrangements had been perfected for a wedding at the home of Mr. Oler, a mutual friend.

The guests attended, and, with the minister, awaited the coming of the bride. Mr. Dorer was on time, but the bride-to-be did not come.

Messengers dispatched to her house came back with the information that the widow had changed her mind.

Those present were not to be cheated in this way. The refreshments had arrived, and it was decided to go on with the reception.

So they did, when Mr. Dorer decided to marry a Miss Higgins, and proposed before the company dispersed. He was accepted.

This settled, it was up to Mr. Dorer to secure another license. Taking the one he had, he waited at the door of the courthouse until the clerk arrived. He wanted the names changed, but this could not be done, so he got another.

Mr. Dorer and Miss Higgins went to the parsonage of the Starr Methodist church and were married by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Haddaway. Mr. Oler acted as best man, and Miss Alice Cassell was bridesmaid.

Upon returning to the home of Mr. Oler the wedding party entered upon another reception.

Mrs. Dorer is only 18 years of age, and the bridegroom says he is very well satisfied with the change.

FLYING SNAKE IN VIRGINIA.

Reptile with Wings, That Fed on Birds, Is Killed in King George.

Comorn, Va.—A most remarkable and uncommon "flying snake" that was captured and killed at "Berry plain," the home of John S. Dickinson, in this county, a few days ago, has attracted wide attention.

The curious reptile was first noticed flying about in the air, presenting the appearance of an ordinary snake attached to a strange looking bird.

As far as is known, it never once descended to the earth and crawled on the ground after the manner of snakes, but it would occasionally alight in trees and catch such birds as best suited its fancy.

It was finally killed and proved to be five feet long and about one inch in diameter of body. It had wings of good size, covered with feathers.

"Berry plain," where the curious thing made its advent and met its untimely end, is one of the finest plantations on the banks of the Rappahannock. It is conjectured by some that the "flying snake" may have come from an impenetrable marsh of the river or some neighboring creek.

But this theory is not accepted by many, for, as far as can be learned, nothing bearing a similarity to this serpent was ever before seen or heard of anywhere in this section of the country.

SHE DANCES 12 HOURS.

Bride Wins $235 by Her Endurance in the Giddy Whirl for Half a Day.

Sharon, Pa.—Paula Walliski, a pretty Polish maiden, was married recently to Joe Sparski. At all Polish weddings it is a custom for the bride to dance with all the male guests, and every time a guest is thus favored he throws a piece of silver money into a plate which stands in the center of the room. The amount of money thus contributed to the bride depends entirely upon the endurance of the bride.

Paula is a husky young woman, and she started with the first dance at noon. Around the room she was whirled time and time again, and with each round the shekels dropped on the plate. Supper time came, but the bride did not stop for the meal, and continued to dance. Nine o'clock came, when the wedding feast was served, but still Paula was too busy dancing and making money. At midnight she dropped to the floor exhausted. Then the money was counted, and it was found that the bride had danced herself into the possession of $235.

CUPID ROUTS "BACH" GIRLS

Club Disrupted by Little Archer and Sixteen Marriages Are Then Booked.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Sixteen young women, members of the Bachelor Girls' club, claiming Corry, Pa., as their home, arrived in Buffalo for a wholesale marriage at the Robinson hotel. Their ages range from 24 to 28 years.

In 1900 they organized the Bachelor Girls' club and each took an oath not to marry as long as the organization was in existence. It is understood they have fallen one by one before Cupid's army, and that they decided to become brides in a bunch, which arrangement was agreed to by their suitors.

The young women arrived in Buffalo and there were married.

Marry on Merry-Go-Round.

In St. Louis a few days ago a man and a woman were married on a merry-go-round while it was in operation. Later they will be likely to take matrimony more seriously.

Traction Question. With automobiles bumping street cars off the track in Chicago, the traction question there becomes even more complicated.

COW EATS CLOTHES LINE.

Result, Friendship Is Severed Between Close Neighbors—Bovine an Epicure.

Portland, Ore.—This city has an omnivorous cow, whose preference lies to the washing hanging on clotheslines.

I. Wickman is the owner of the cow that would have been more nearly in accord with the eternal scheme of things had she been born a goat. She craves boots and shoes, rubber goods, and such like. This hunger has frequently led to hostilities between her owner and his neighbors, and has won her the appellation of "the brindle rag-chewer."

As the result of a foraging expedition made by the cow Wickman and Nick Spady, who lives in the adjoining lot, are at daggers drawn.

The bovine epicure rose early from her slumbers recently and spied an undershirt and other garments hanging invitingly on a line in Spady's yard, close to the fence.

Spady witnessed the disappearance of the last article. Filled with indignation, he grabbed a club, and vaulting over the fence beat the omnivorous animal full sore. Wickman was called to the scene by the bellowing of the cow, remonstrated with her assailant, and called in Policeman Adams, who was informed that Spady had beaten the cow in Wickman's own yard.

The policeman acted King Solomon and advised peace, but there is blood on the moon.

AN INTERESTING GRADUATE

Story of Tek Kah Tsai, Educated at Charles City, Ia., College—Remarkable Progress.

Charles City, Ia.—One of the graduates at the Charles City college this year is Tek Kah Tsai. He is a native of Kiu Kiang, China. He will graduate with the degree of bachelor of arts. Four years ago he could not speak a word of English. In the four years he has mastered the German and English languages and speaks them fluently. Mr. Tsai has a family in his native city of Kiu Kiang, a wife and two boys and a girl. While he has been attending college here he has paid his way by giving lectures in vacation time and at other times and has sent $200 a year home for the support of his family. Mr. Tsai is 35 years old, and was born in the town of Kwang Chi, in the province of Hupeh. He returns well equipped to play a part in the unfolding drama of civilization of that far-away land.

He has adopted the costume of the American while here and wears no queue. In fact, he says, this was a thing that was imposed upon the Chinese by the Tartars when they invaded his country, and was to distinguish them as slaves. The Japanese, who lived upon the island, then a part of China, were so isolated that they did not come under the ban of the Tartars, and for that reason the custom never had a start in that country, and he says as the Chinese become civilized they discard the queue.

TIES APPEAL TO SWALLOW.

Wrongfully Convicted Man Sends Statement by Using a Unique Method.

Rome.—The prayers of a prisoner on the island of Porto Longone were answered when a petition written by him was placed in the hands of the minister of justice.

A swallow was used by the prisoner to convey his plea, and the remarkable thing is that it has at last reached the person for whom it was destined. Signor Jachola, keeper of the Campo lighthouse on the island of Elba, captured the bird.

Noticing a scrap of paper which was attached to one of its feet, he removed it and found it was a letter written by Bruno Cataldo, who stated that he had been wrongfully convicted of murder and had been in prison since 1885.

It added that the swallow having entered through the grating of his cell, Cataldo had attached his appeal to its foot, hoping that it might be forwarded to the minister of justice or to the king. Signor Jachola forwarded the appeal.

INDIAN IS A STENOGRAPHER

Young Red Man, a Shorthand Writer, Has a Remarkable Accomplishment.

Muskogee, I. T.—There is in the employ of the Dawes commission a young Choctaw who is one of the few stenographers in the United States who can take dictation in shorthand in three languages. This man's name is L. J. Collins. He speaks Choctaw and Chickasaw with as much fluency as he does English. He is about 30 years old. His father was a full-blooded Choctaw Indian, and his mother a Chickasaw. While his father lived he learned to speak Choctaw. When he went to the Chickasaw country with his mother, that language seemed as easy for him as the Choctaw. When his mother died, he was picked up by a white family, and allowed to study with them under a governess. He worked his way through the Indian schools and finally finished a course in stenography.

Reaches Pretty Far. Somebody has figured out that if Rockefeller's money was in dollar bills laid end to end it would reach around the globe and have eight miles left over for a bowknot. In the meantime it is not in dollar bills, but it is doing some tall reaching in this country.

Dynamite Gunboat Has Been Refitted and Is Now a Torpedo Training Ship.

Boston.—The United States ship Vesuvius, once the only dynamite gunboat in any navy, which in the Spanish war frightened many Spanish soldiers and sailors at Santiago, will go into commission again in a few days at the Charlestown navy yard.

She is a dynamite cruiser no longer, her new designation being a torpedo training ship. She will be stationed at the torpedo station at Newport. About $200,000 has been expended at the local yard in refitting the ship for her new work. About all that remains of the old fittings are her hull and engines, and these have been thoroughly overhauled and are entirely new in many parts. The work of rebuilding and refitting has been in progress about a year.

The ship, a "white elephant" of the navy, will at last be of some practical service. It is now said. She has been tied up at the Charlestown navy yard since her return from the campaign in Cuba. The navy department has been considering what could be done with the craft to make her of some service, and probably a hundred plans for converting her were considered before the torpedo instruction ship idea was decided upon.

RICH; IN WORKHOUSE

MILLIONAIRE ARRESTED AS A "SUSPICIOUS PERSON."

Captured by Police in Opium Den and Thrown Among Paupers and Criminals in Pittsburgh—Released After Four Days.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Allegheny county workhouse has for four days sheltered a real live millionaire unawares. It is true that a man just released from it was, as declared, Jerome Murillo, of New York and Peekskill-on-the-Hudson. New York is said to be his place of business, and Peekskill his residence.

He started back home with Martin Gurino, said to be his brother-in-law, but minus the raven locks which surmounted his head when he was convicted of being a "suspicious person."

On June 19 Murillo, if it be he, was before Magistrate George A. Moke, in company with George Dudhill, Ruth Meredith and Ada Murillo, the last named claiming to be Murillo's wife. The quartette were arrested by Capt. Lawrence Bartley in a house where all were accused of smoking opium. A number of pawn tickets were found in the room. They were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs each, with the alternative of 90 days in the workhouse. Having no money, they were compelled to go to the workhouse.

When Gurino, accompanied by his valet, reached the police station on the hunt for Murillo at the hearing said he was independently wealthy, but as he showed no money the officers set it down as a "pipe dream." Gurino, however, corroborated the story. He said that Murillo's father was for years one of the leading importers of Italian goods in New York, and did business at 27 Mulberry street. At his death, five years ago, he left Jerome an income of $60,000 a year, and the principal from which the income was derived when he reformed. Jerome is the only son, but he has five sisters, who are equally wealthy.

The woman who claimed to be his wife has never been heard of by the rest of the family. She is still in the workhouse.

Murillo left home a few days before his arrival here, saying he was going west to "rough it" for awhile. He was plentifully supplied with money. When he walked out of the workhouse he showed the effect of his confinement, and was manifestly grateful for his deliverance.

HAS QUEER IDEAS OF LAW.

Man Accepted as Juror Who Considers Tariff and Excise Laws of Immoral Nature.

Philadelphia.—"I would refuse to convict a moonshiner who, in defending his still from a raiding party, should kill a revenue officer. I could not find a man guilty of smuggling, nor of selling liquor without a license. I consider the tariff and excise laws immoral, and hold the right to judge for myself of the morality or immorality of any law under which I would be asked to render a verdict."

These were the unique statements made to Judge Holland by Samuel Milliken, a juror drawn in the United States courts.

Milliken is well known as an anti-imperialist, first coming to prominence by his attacks on the Philippine policy. He is also prominent in socialistic labor circles.

Milliken said he is an absolute free trader. Judge Holland refused to disqualify him from service, saying:

"You are not disqualified by these opinions from serving in matters other than tariff or excise cases. In such cases, however, you will probably be excused from service."

The unique juror says he is of the opinion that a jury has a moral right to judge the law first and the man afterward. He does not believe in what he terms "artificial crimes," under which he classes smuggling and selling liquor without a license.

BULL BALKS AT GOOD MUSIC

Charges Into Crowd When Organ Starts to Play Hymn—Could Not Soothe Savage Beast.

Philadelphia.—A rough shock was given to those who believe that "music bath charms to soothe the savage breast" when a large bull, taking offense at the strains from an organ in a Gospel wagon at Ridge avenue and Delmar street, lowered his head and swooped down upon the wagon.

The consequence was a wild scattering of the crowd which had surrounded the wagon and the running away of the horse attached to the Gospel wagon.

Hudson Gregory, a colored evangelist, was in charge of the wagon. The services had just begun when a bull, led by a small boy, came in view. At the first sound of the organ the bull pricked up his ears and at the second note he charged, breaking away from the boy who was leading him.

The horse attached to the wagon took fright and ran down Ridge avenue. It ran three squares before it was stopped by Mounted Policemen. The bull after scattering the crowd stopped and permitted himself to be captured.

He'd Lose There.

A distinguished German professor says oocanot meat in its raw state is the natural food of man. But there are professors in Battle Creek, Mich., who can talk him blind on that proposition.

NEW THRILL FROM PARIS.

Device Which Makes "Looping the Gap" Far More Exciting Halls from France.

New York.—The St. Paul, of the American line, which arrived recently, brought the apparatus for "L'Auto Bolide," which is one of the sensations of a circus here.

The latest thriller consists of "looping the gap" in an automobile, and it comes from the Folies Bergere, Paris. Mlle. Mauricia de Tiers, the young Frenchwoman performs the daring exploit.

The framework supports the runways and is as high as a four-story building. It is of the finest steel and tubing and weighs many tons. The general shape of the apparatus suggests the hump of a buffalo. At the apex is a small platform. One side of the steel framework supports an incline that curves inward at its lower extremity like the tail of a monster letter "S." The other section of the

COST OF LIVING HIGH

PRICES OF ALL FOOD PRODUCTS ARE INCREASING.

Bureau of Labor Issues a Bulletin Showing Increase in Recent Years—Steady Climb Since 1900.

Washington.—Prices of fuel, clothing, and practically all food products are constantly increasing, according to a bulletin just issued by the bureau of labor, covering the period from 1890 to 1904. In the early '90s prices were very high, but in the last four years they have been steadily increasing, until now they are relatively higher than in 1892, just before the memorable financial and commercial depression. The period of lowest prices was from 1894 to 1897.

The lowest price of beef was in April, 1896, when the best choice was quoted at $3.85 to $4.25 per hundred pounds. The highest price was the latter part of August, 1902, when the price touched $7.60 to $8 per hundred pounds. Corn was lowest in 1886 and highest in 1892.

In a table of comparison, in which the average price for the years 1890 to 1899 is taken as the basis, 16 articles of farm production, including sheep, cattle, hay, hogs, hides and grains, are enumerated. All except flax seed increased over the average price from 1890 to 1899. The increase in prices in 1904 ranges from 7.8 per cent. on sheep and 9.7 per cent. on cattle to 32.6 per cent. on corn, 35.8 per cent. on oats, 38.3 per cent. on wheat, and the top increase of 96.2 per cent. on New York state hops.

The average increase in 1904 in the wholesale price of farm products over the average for the years 1890 and 1899 is 26.2 per cent. Of 52 articles included under the head of food it is shown that the 1904 price of all but 14 articles was higher than the average price of the same from 1890 to 1899.

Seventy articles under the head of cloth and clothing show that the average price for 1904 was 9.8 per cent. higher than the average from 1890 to 1899. The table on fuel and lighting places the average 1904 price at 32.6 per cent. higher than the 1890 to 1899 price.

BONES OF DUQUENE MEN.

Workmen in Pittsburgh Cut Into Its First Graveyard, Making Interesting Find.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Workmen cutting Oliver avenue 20 feet wider found behind a stone wall quantities of human bones. W. E. Watson says that his grandfather, William Eichbaum, told him when a boy that here the French soldiers who defended Fort Duquesne buried their dead. They also interred the Indians who died within the fortifications with their own soldiers, and the first negro who died in Pittsburgh was interred there.

The dead were carried from the fort "by the path of the Virgin," as they were all good Catholics then, and the alley became known as Virgin alley, afterward being changed to Oliver avenue in honor of Harry Oliver, who owned all the property adjoining.

There has been nothing found to mark the rank of the dead nor to tell what nationality they were. Not far from this spot Maj. Grant, who commanded a reconnoitering expedition from Gen. Forbes' army, was defeated on a hill, now Grant street, and the bodies were dumped into holes in the graveyard, according to tradition.

The British afterward used the same burying grounds as long as the garison was kept in Pittsburgh.

WILL PROVIDES FOR CIGARS

Splinter Leaves Estate to Sister on Condition That Father Be Allowed to Smoke Freely.

Philadelphia.—When the will of Charlotte D. Sage was admitted to probate one of the most curious clauses ever contained in a document of this kind was brought to light. The estate is valued at $350 and the will disposes of it in this wise:

"I bequeath to my beloved sister (if she promises to allow my father, Benjamin F. Sage, of beloved memory, all the cigars he wants, also all the vests he likes to wear in the winter) all my personal and real estate I die possessed of or to which I shall be entitled at the time of my decease."

Inquiry developed the fact that Miss Sage's father, who is an elderly man, has a fondness for cigars. Some time ago his eldest daughter refused to allow him to smoke the usual number on account of his health. He felt the loss of tobacco keenly. His fondness for fancy waistcoats amounted to a hobby.

GEN. LINEVITCH.

(New Commander of Russian Troops in the Far East.)

Well known Polish Catholic family and started his career under as good conditions as the average Russian officer. He has, however, won his spurs by hard service and active campaigning. To-day, despite his many years, he endures all the hardships of a strenuous campaign with as few signs of fatigue as the most hardy of his men.

As a leader he bids fair to become as well beloved by the rank and file of the army as was his predecessor. He knows no fear and has always been at the front. He is greatly beloved by the soldiers because of his constant solicitude for their welfare.

More Kickers.

The government has ordered 10,000 mules to be shipped to the canal zone for use in constructing the Panama canal—as if there weren't kickers enough there already!

CAPTURE BEAR AFTER FIGHT

Big Specimen of Bruin Family Is Taken by Hunters After Strenuous Conflict.

Montrose, Col.—One of the largest black bears ever killed in this country was brought in from the Cimarron by Uri Hotchkiss and Maurice Diehl. They conquered the big fellow only after a lively fight.

It seems that Mr. Diehl had gone over into that country with a load of trout fry, intending to place them in deep lake. He found the snow so deep he could not get in with the fish, so he started back to the Harris ranch. He heard Uri Hotchkiss, who was riding for cattle, shouting, so he went over the ridge to see what the trouble was.

Uri and the bear were contemplating each other. Uri had wounded the big fellow, but having but one cartridge left, he didn't feel like risking it until he had to do so. Just then the bear took a notion to do some hunting for himself, and though Uri is almost as big as a common bear, Bruin started after the hunter, and down the hill they went through the deep snow.

Mr. Hotchkiss probably thought it would be a good plan to coax the wounded bear down near the wagons before he killed him, but he almost missed his guess, for the bear came on with a rush, and it looked as though it was all day with Uri. Maurice pelted the bear with rocks in an effort to stop him, but he got pretty close to Uri, when the latter fired his last bullet, striking the brute in the end of the nose and rooseveltizing him in good shape. The bear was brought to Montrose.

GROWS VINELESS POTATOES

Montana Genius Can Supply New Tubers at Any Season in New Form.

Great Falls, Mont.—A local man has produced potatoes without vines, and asserts that he is now able to supply new potatoes for the market at any season of the year. The inventor will not reveal the process in detail. He has conducted his experiments in a box four by eight feet, in which there is a steam coil for heating.

He states that he has succeeded, after much experimenting, in perfecting a compound resembling soil that when heated is a fertile field for the development of plant life. In a layer of this compound he plants potato eyes, then another layer of the compound with more potato eyes, and so on until the box is filled. He claims that in this compound potatoes grow without any portion of the vine or sprout appearing above the surface; that all growth is in tubers, and that it is not necessary for either light or air to reach the potatoes at any stage of their growth, elements in the compound serving the purpose of oxygen.

CURE FOR BLINDNESS

VIOLET RAYS SAID TO RESTORE SIGHT.

Interesting Experiments with Electric Current in New Form—How the Treatment Is Applied.

New York.—A series of interesting experiments with the violet ray as a cure for blindness has disclosed that electricity in this weird and strangely beautiful form has possibilities before undreamed of. Heretofore it has been used chiefly to destroy bacilli and malignant, diseased tissue, but this new experiment applied it to the optic nerves of a woman who had been pronounced incurably blind by the specialists in one of the eye and ear hospitals of this city. As a result of the treatment the patient, Mrs. Charlotte Walker, is able to read the headlines on a newspaper, see the hands on a watch and pursue the ordinary vocations of life.

The fact that the nerves responded to the treatment proves that they were not entirely atrophied, as supposed by the physicians that administered treatment in the hospitals.

Whether the sight can be entirely restored will depend, according to the experimenter, Dr. S. S. Yallan, on the patient's general condition and the cause of the trouble. If there be deep-seated organic disease, affecting the entire system, the cure may not be perfected and the improvement is likely to be only temporary.

The electricity may be generated by a static machine or by a coil, the static machine being used by Dr. Yallan. Mrs. Walker sits beside it on an insulated platform. The electrode is a glass vacuum tube with an expanded bulb at the end and an insulated handle, or one having two bulbs, this being used on both eyes simultaneously.

The physician applies the bulb to the temples, to the eyeballs, to the back of each ear and over the spine and back in order to reach the cervical nerves that control the eyes.

While the treatment is in progress the glass bulb is more beautiful than any flower, the ray changing from pale violet to deep purple. At the same time the patient experiences a prickling sensation more or less intense, according to the strength of the current.

"The patient was brought to me for the experiment with the violet ray by a physician in the hospital in which she had been pronounced incurable," said Dr. Yallan. "She was about 30 years old, had been blind two years and could not or would not give any history of her case that could be of any aid in treating her. There was evidence that the nerves of the eye were entirely atrophied. The woman also has rheumatic pains, which complicated her case and showed the general system was not in a healthy condition."

"After taking the violet ray treatment for a month she announced to me joyfully: 'Oh, I am going to get my sight back again! I am seeing fine! I can see people on the street. I can take care of the lamps.' Soon she was doing considerable housework, being able to see her way about the house."

BIRD OUSTS CONGREGATION

Feathered Mocker Does "Stunts" in Church—Audience Finally Takes Its Leave.

Baltimore, Md.—An English mocking bird wandered into Hagerstown, Md., and had quite a time. It attacked first an apple in the street in front of a fruit store on West Franklin street, and when some sparrows interfered, knocked them right and left. They formed a chattering ring and speculated on the new champion. The bird then flew off and entered Christ Reformed church by the bay window.

Rev. Charles Shaffer of Thurmont, was reading his text, when the bird lit on the edge of the Bible. He gently waved it off, and it flew down to the edge of the pulpit and came back and stood on the text. The reverend gentleman read, though, and the bird flew to the top of the organ and sat awhile, and then came back and perched right over the preacher until he was through with his sermon. It seemed very attentive. When the organ opened it flew to that and enjoyed the music, and, finally, after a comprehensive flight over the congregation, turned to the chandelier. There it was when the congregation went out. Mr. Spielman went to the church and easily captured it.

Battlers Near University.

Rattlesnakes in large numbers have been reported as infesting the hills slopes just behind the University of California grounds, and there is a belief that the record-breaking rattler that was killed a few months ago was the mother of this large brood of young snakes.

Rats Do Great High Wire Act.

At Sligo, Me., a crowd watched nearly 50 rats cross high above the ground upon an electric wire from the town hall to a flour mill more than 200 yards away. The rats used their tails as the professional walker on the lofty wire uses his balancing pole, and not one made a misstep.

Buling of Judge.

Down in New Jersey a judge has decided that a man must pay the bills contracted by his wife before their marriage. If this kind of law holds good some cautious men will insist hereafter in having a look at the receipts before starting for the church.

Jersey Not All Bad.

Jersey justice comes again in the decision by the supreme court of that state that the law prohibiting live pigeon shooting is valid. The state also scores for humanity.

HAS RIGHT TO GET DRUNK

Butte Judge Decides Once in Thirty Days Is Proper Average for a Man.

Butte, Mont.—"Any man who pays his liquor bill and is not too boisterous is entitled to get drunk once a month," said Police Judge Warren in acquitting Luther Wilson, charged with being a periodical drunkard. The prosecuting attorney cited the fact that Wilson had been a regular offender during the past year, and asked that he be given a jail sentence.

The prisoner argued that he had never been arrested twice in the same month, and expressed the opinion that any man was entitled to a "quiet jag" once a month. The point was well taken by Judge Warren, who said: "I am of the opinion any man who does not create a disturbance or make a nuisance of himself is entitled to get drunk once each 30 days if he cares to. You may go, Wilson, but don't let your jag dates conflict, for if you are arrested twice in the same month you will be punished. Take my advice and stick to the water wagon until after the Fourth of July."

BECOMES BALD IN A WEEK

Young Man Loses His Hair in Remarkable Way and the Doctors Are Puzzled.

Connersville, Ind.—Clarence Maple was arrested for alleged assault. Maple is a married man and has a family. Since his incarceration in jail he has lost his hair and now is as bald as the average man of 70 years, the only semblance of hair on his head being a small growth near the front. When placed in jail Maple possessed a heavy head of hair.

Instances have been known of a person's hair turning suddenly white when suffering from fright or grief, but the present instance is believed to be the first on record of the kind. A physician whose attention was called to the matter could not account for it, but said it was of great interest to medical science.
